WAR WILL
BE RESUMEDStated That Balkan Allies Have Made
Up Their Mind to That Effect

London, January 14.—Unless unforeseen events should change the current of affairs, the war in the Near East will be resumed within a week, and Europe will witness the horrors of a winter campaign.

The allies have firmly made up their minds to take up arms a second time. The Turks last week were threatening to leave London and let matters take whatever course they might. Now the Balkan delegates are convinced that the Balkan delegates are merely drifting, without a fixed policy, and they have decided to end the seemingly fruitless debates and wire pulling, and begin the battles anew, where they left off more than a month ago.

The Ottoman government failed to convene the grand council today and apparently has no intention of meeting the allies ultimatum at Adrianople. The allies do not believe in the efficacy of the note which the powers will present at Constantinople because it is couched in too mild terms, and simply advises Turkey to submit to the fate of war and abandon Adrianople for fear of complications in other parts of the empire at a time when Turkey could not find moral or financial support in Europe.

The Turkish government knows that this means nothing because it is aware that the powers will be unable to agree on any coercive terms. Thus the presentation by the powers of the note, it is pointed out, might mean simply the opening of a new chapter in the already wearisome diplomatic parleyings and the shifting of the debate from one between the belligerents to the one between Turkey and the powers.

The Balkan kingdoms moreover are anxious to obtain relief from the heavy burdens of keeping their armies on a war footing indefinitely. Wishing, however, to observe at the diplomatic courtesies, they have given the powers a reasonable time to agree on the note, frame it and present it to Turkey. But this once done, if Turkey as is probable fails to yield, they are determined to act. Their governments have agreed to call another sitting of the conference through Sir Edward Grey or Rechad Pasha, who according to the rotation following would be the next presiding officer. They will then simply announce their decision definitely to break the negotiations and also thank England for the hospitality extended and the conditions of fair play under which the discussions occurred.

Immediately afterward, Sofia, Belgrade and Cetinje and the Serbian, Bulgarian and Montenegrin commanders will notify the Turkish headquarters that hostilities will be resumed within ninety six hours.

The allies say that it is easy to predict the course of events. After they have stormed Tchatalja, they prophesy, Turkey will be ready to cede Adrianople just as after the Italians landed in Tripoli she offered to make concessions which previously she had strenuously refused, and as after the victories of the Balkan states, she consented to grant reforms they had vainly asked for thirty four years.

After their second resort to arms,

SENATORSHIP
STILL IN DOUBTFeeling Prevails in Concord That
Hollis Will Not Land the Prize

Concord, Jan. 14.—As was predicted there was no choice for United States senator by the legislature today, and another viva voce vote will be taken at noon tomorrow. That will be in joint convention. Sickness broke in upon the remarkable record for attendance that had been recorded the first week of the session, when every one of the 103 surviving members responded to their names. Patra were arranged for the sick members of the house, however, in two instances, Woods of Milan, Republican, who was absent from the house unimpaired, the speaker did not vote. This left 397 voting in the lower branch. In the senate Scammon of Essex, Republican, was not present, and President Sawyer, Democrat, did not vote, leaving 22 to vote in the senate. It took twelve votes to effect a choice in the senate, and Henry P. Hollis, the Democratic caucus nominee had eleven. J. J. of Manchester voted for Frank P. Carpenter of Manchester, and Beal of Plymouth for Clarence B. Jarr of Andover; the Republican vote was also divided. Quinby receiving six and Pillsbury three.

Nor did the democratic caucus nominee receive the full Democratic vote in the house. Boulanger of Manchester voted for Carpenter and Whitcomb of Swansey for Carr. Considering the six not voting, 197 was necessary for a choice. Hollis received 193. The only Republican who voted for a Democrat was Chase of Concord who prefaced his vote for Hollis with the statement that "because I represented his home ward and because he is the choice of my constituents I cast my vote for Henry P. Hollis." The Republican vote in the house was a free for all. Quinby had 108, Pillsbury 54, Boss 15, Gile 7, Borroughs 7, Chalmers 5, and eight others, a total of 204. Had the Republicans voted steadily for one man he would have had five more than enough for a choice, as regards the house. Had today's vote been counted in joint convention and the Democrats united upon one candidate he would have fallen five short of enough necessary for a choice, even with the Republican vote that was given for Mr. Hollis.

Because of this the Democrats were uneasy though still hopeful after today's voting. Hollis's friends were clearly surprised that so many of the sixty two absentees from their caucus supported his nominee, and disappointed that they did not make great or broadside into the Republican ranks. Buoyed up by the ease of their triumph in the election of state officials in the legislature, they had been confidently hopeful that somehow or other it would be continued. The only Democratic hope still is that the Republicans will present them with the senatorship, for they realize that they have not enough of their own.

On the other hand they are anxious lest they have not enough of their solid Democratic strength today given Mr. Hollis. They know that there are many Democratic members with whom he is not and has not been first choice, but because he secured the caucus nomination they were willing to forego for regularity and give him the chance to win. Having failed the cause of uneasiness among Hollis's friends is lest they will feel that there can be no longer a valid claim that the caucus action is blinding and that it is the duty of men who put their welfare to the fore to try out some other in the hope that Republicans enough may be attracted to land him, and before the Republicans themselves become united on someone of their own number and exercise the choice that their real majority slower entitles them to manifest.

But there were no impressive signs that the Republicans were hastening to vote solidly for someone of their own number. The bang vote today was disappointingly small. The lowest number claimed for him was 23, and he got but fifteen. The leaders of this little band firmly declare that not one of their number will ever vote for Mr. Hollis. They have thus far shown themselves particularly well organized. There were more prominent men of each of the parties here this afternoon and they have been seen about the hotel since the legislature organized.

Of all the republicans appear the least well organized. The number of men who hand votes were cast today is only one evidence of it.

The uncertainty of the situation has been never more pronounced than it was this afternoon. Whether something would transpire to clear it up over night remains to be seen. Another vote must be had at noon.

SENATORSHIP
STILL IN DOUBT

Tomorrow.

That there was a general expectation that the deadlock would be prolonged even after today's vote appeared in the consideration among the legislative leaders up to what would be done about the usual week end recess. The records of the prolonged contest of 1883 was referred to for a precedent. The voting then began.

Tuesday, June 19 and a choice was reached Thursday, August 2 on the third ballot. A vote was taken on Friday and Saturday and Monday until after the third week of voting, then adjournment was made on Friday until the following Monday. But on the earlier Fridays, Saturdays and Mondays the vote was merely formal, evidently from an understanding; no quorum being present. The whole here if no choice is effected for Saturday or Monday sessions at least.

The question has also been raised if more than one voting can be had on the same day. Then on same days two votings were had and several times three. On Wednesday, July 11, there were three votings and on the 12th two. On the last day the convention voted three times. On several other days a resolution was offered to ballot a second time, but it was voted against by a majority.

In addition to the voting for senator tomorrow, will come the election of a secretary of state, state treasurer and commissary general.

The speaker announced the standing committees this morning and this afternoon his selection for employees of the house.

Of the standing committee five chairmanships went to members who have by their votes classed themselves as Progressives; eleven to Democrats and seventeen to Republicans. Of the thirty three, six chairmanships went to Concord members and five to Manchester members.

The February Century will contain three Lincoln features of much interest. One will be an expansion of Lincoln's secret promise to co-operate with McClellan to save the Union in the event of McClellan's election. A description of the manuscript which is owned by Mrs. John Hay, will illustrate the article. The statement made in Monday's issue of a local paper to the effect that not a ledge had been encountered in the two years dredging of Pepperell's Cove, is a decided error. As a matter of fact several heretofore unknown ledges have been laid bare as more than one skipper can testify already. One of these ledges has only about five feet of water over it at mean low tide, while the others have much less than the required twelve feet. It is of the greatest importance that a further appropriation be made for their removal, as at present the large area already dredged is wholly unsafe for the use of strangers. Pending any appropriation for their removal, they should be marked by buoys or serious damage to some vessel is likely to result.

Here's a hunch!

P. A.'s got a bunch of imitators—right smart proof it's all wool and a yard wide!

Two things are never counterfeited—plugged nickels and ordinary tobaccos! Prince Albert sort of upset the fashion in pipe and cigarette tobacco, because it won't sting your tongue (bite's cut out by a patented process), because it tastes delicious and because it has fragrance that makes it welcome in any home or office. Out of the tall timbers came the substitutes—"just as good as P. A."—"just like P. A."—and that sort of thing! Just trying to warp in!

Let this sink deep: Every time that chaff's handed you, make a bee line for a tin of Prince Albert. Then you're in O. K. Realize that imitation is the basest advertisement P. A. can have! Get that? There's just one "joy smoke" in this world for you, whether you jam it in a jimmy pipe or roll up a cigarette—that's Prince Albert.

You get a new view of life's joys if you'll buy a package of P. A. and roll up a cigarette. It's great—fresh, fragrant, sweet. Right now, put it on your sure thing list. It's worth a bet.

HOLLIS LACKED BUT FIVE OF ELECTION

Legislature Unable to Agree on Senator on First Ballot--Democrats Voted for Hollis.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 14.—Neither branch of the State Legislature was able to reach an agreement on the choice of United States Senator today. In the Senate the vote was divided among five candidates, three Democrats and two Republicans, and in the House the names of 15 candidates were presented. The Democrats in the Lower House nearly all voted for Henry P. Hollis and the Progressives for Ex-Gov. Robert P. Bass. The Republican vote was split up among 11 candidates. The Progressives had claimed to hold the balance of power, and the failure of the Republicans to make any formal nomination left considerable doubt as to their stand. Hollis was nominated by a Democratic caucus which 60 of the party legislators did not attend. They had not announced their position when the vote was taken today. In the Senate the vote was: Henry

COLLEGE GIRLS WILL COME HIGH

New York, Jan. 14.—Any bachelor contemplating marriage, on an income less than $10,000 may as well abandon the idea, according to Miss Angelle Perry, who, in an address before the Mothers' Club here last night, said $10,000 was set by a large number of "representative girls" from whom she had collected data. Most of the girls were just out of college, she said. "Many of them told me," she continued, "that after carefully estimating the cost of maintaining a home they had arrived at the conclusion that less than $10,000 would mean living without some of the comforts essential to their happiness. And these girls were not the daughters of millionaires, but belonged to well-to-do families."

LAD BREAKS THROUGH ICE IN SOUTH POND

In Water Long Time Before Rescued in Unconscious Condition.

William, the five years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Dennett of Franklin street, broke through the ice on the South Pond on Monday afternoon and he came as near drowning as he ever will, being pulled out of the water in an unconscious condition and completely exhausted. The young lad, with others of his own age, were playing on the ice at the foot of Whidden street and they ventured out too far, and in the channel where the ice was much thinner, young Dennett broke through. His little companions at once gave the alarm by calling for help, but it was several minutes before any body came. The water was not very deep just up to the boy's nose, and he struggled to keep his head above the water. Several people started at the same time from different directions. Mr. Isaac Jenness who lives on Johnson street heard the cries and he started with some planks, at the same time Frank Woods started from the bridge end and Clifford Lawd from the foot of Wentworth street. The ice was thin for a man's weight and a small flat boat was secured and pushed over the ice. Mr. Jenness with his plank was the first to arrive and he laid out his plank and Reginald Taylor crawled out on the plank and caught hold of the boy who had ceased to struggle and was holding on to the ice. He was pulled to safety and was unconscious when brought ashore at the foot of Whidden street. Here there were willing hands, and a former naval man started to roll the boy and give him very effective first aid and in a short time he had him back to life. Dr. Higgins who had been summoned, arrived soon after the boy came ashore, and the lad was wrapped in overcoats and taken home. He was in a bad way from the exposure, for he was in the icy water nearly a half hour. Last night the lad was reported as being very comfortable, and with no serious effects from his terrible experience.

MAINE UNABLE TO AGREE ON SENATOR

Augusta, Me., Jan. 14.—The Senate today voted in favor of the election of Edwin C. Burleigh, Republican, for United States Senator, but the House of Representatives was unable to reach an agreement. Burleigh and Senator Obadiah Gardner, who is the Democratic candidate for reelection, each received 72 votes in the lower body. Four votes were cast for J. M. Thompson of Augusta and there was one pair. The vote in the Senate was along strictly party lines, 21 for Burleigh and 10 for Gardner. The two branches will meet in joint convention tomorrow and take one ballot. In the event of no candidate receiving a majority at that time, one joint ballot will be taken each day until there is a choice. Before proceeding to vote the House had before it an order for the unsealing of four Representatives who are Postmasters and thus Federal officeholders. Representative William H. Farrar of Ripley had been unseated by a vote of 76 to 71 when the noon hour arrived, and under the law it was necessary to take a vote on United States Senator. The motion named Representative Horace Mitchell of Kittery, Otis H. Taylor of Topsheld and William H. Farrar of Ripley. Representative James Matheson of Bangsley in the proceedings.

CADET MARRIED, A LOBBY AGAINST SOCIALISTS

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Edwin E. Adley of Billings, Mont., the United States Military Academy cadet who ran away a week ago to marry Florence E. Davis in Tarrytown, is under arrest here today, having voluntarily returned to face charges of absence without leave. He has been stripped of his rank as sergeant, but the Military Academy authorities have refused to accept the letter of resignation which he submitted, as Adley is not of age. He will be allowed to continue work with his classes until Commandant Staden learns from the officials at Washington just what action should be taken in his case.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 14.—The first lobby ever arranged in California, if not the first in the United States with the single purpose of fighting Socialism, appeared in the Legislature yesterday. Charles H. Harwood, president of the Sound Government League, is at the head. "The people of the State are not Socialists," said Mr. Harwood. "None the less some Socialistic legislation has been enacted. It is the intention of the league to reveal in their true colors any Socialistic bills presented here. Then, if the people want them, it is their lookout."

Men of Caliber Lacking.

Cross-examination of Messrs. Morgan and Baker by the Pujo committee has drawn from each of them an unqualified statement that in the play and interplay of high finance personal character is the greatest asset. Investors, the public, and officials charged with execution of law, so say these men who control hundreds of millions of bank, railroad and industrial securities, have no reason to fear so long as the admitted centralized pecuniary and social power is in the hands of men of character. But if it is not, then the rolling up of such power, they admit, is a social peril. Mr. Baker was candid enough to intimate that the process of centralization which he symbolizes had gone quite far enough in America, the implication being that men equal to any additional test of conscience might be difficult to find.

It is an interesting field for ethical speculation which the testimony of these multi-millionaires has opened up. One of the most eminent of German chemists and thinkers, Ostwald of Leipzig University, has just gone on record with the statement that human capacity for assimilation of new knowledge respecting natural phenomena, such as chemists, physicists, astronomers and the like discover, is not equal to the capacity for discovery. In other words, the mechanism contrived by men for co-operative action in investigation that produces knowledge and publishes it is now turning out a volume of material that man cannot appropriate adequately. Something of the same kind is to be seen in the world of economics and ethics. Men of the past two or three generations have concentrated more ability, loyalty and passion to co-operative methods of stripping nature of wealth previously concealed to devices for profitable investment of money thus acquired, and to gratification of appetites and desires that a competence makes possible, than they have to considerations of ethics, whether new or old. More men have been trained to devise the vast engine of commerce, business, banking and transportation than have been trained to operate it justly after it has been built up. Constructive imagination has outrun constructive reason or constructive good will. Witness the scarcity of administrators in either private or public business with either mental or moral caliber equal to their large task. Witness the small list of men conspicuous for ability in amassing great wealth for whom the public with ethical standards has the respect that is due and always given when great power has been used to bless mankind. For lack of sufficient emphasis by society at large during the past half century on the type of education and teaching that would furnish spiritual and ethical discipline to men acquiring material things at a phenomenal rate, western civilization now faces a social overturning that is based on revolt against excesses and tyrannies allied with worship of mammon.—Christian Science Monitor.

Big Business Ability.

As yet the only information about the members of the cabinet of the president-elect that has been given is the gratuitous suggestions made by the politicians and newspapers. There is an intense interest felt in its probable members by all who are alive to the nation's welfare. But President-elect Wilson isn't saying a thing. Cabinet positions are not very eagerly sought by men who are fitted to hold them, because cabinet officers are subject to such severe public criticism and attack. This has been particularly true of the members of President Taft's cabinet. What is needed now more than ever before in the heads of governmental departments is great business ability. The departments have become great business establishments requiring skilled business men of large experience to conduct them. Statesmen and politicians are not fitted for such positions.—Mirror.

Bass' Swan Song.

Gov. Robert Perkins Bass held up the New Hampshire general court for thirty-five minutes in the midst of a long and trying session, to deliver his "swan song," recounting the things done during his administration as chief executive of the Granite State. Most of the important things that have been accomplished in New Hampshire during the past two years would have been accomplished just the same if we hadn't had any governor at all, but the fame of Governor Bass will rest secure, for he will go down in history as the man who was honored by the republican party and then turned around and quite completely wrecked the party organization, ousted them from power in New Hampshire, and yet found time to go out and run for the state into national politics and join with other crank governors in organizing the third term party, which, while it didn't accomplish anything for itself, did for the G. O. P. in the nation just the same as Governor Bass and his associates did for the organization in the state.—Laconia Democrat.

Hot controversy raged on the floor of the Woman's National Democratic League convention at Washington when that body undertook to elect a new president. The selection of a leader formed one of the biggest problems the fundling host had encountered for a long time, in that the problem included great political questions. Mrs. Steven B. Ayres, who won the high post, was forced to weather a storm as to her beliefs for or against free trade and the single tax. Her success was largely due to the announcement by Mrs. H. T. Scott in nominating her that the candidate had President Eliot Wilson's endorsement. Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, the incumbent of the office, who suffered defeat, received the verdict of the ballots with a bitter speech. She declared her enforced retirement was due to her beliefs as to free trade and the single tax and that therefore she was glad she did not have to preside longer over so narrow minded a set of women. In the picture Mrs. Ayres is on the right and Mrs. Crosby on the left.

THEIR STORY

How Banners of the Second New Hampshire Regiment, Continental Army, Fell into the Hands of the British and How they were Brought Home.

The Revolutionary battle flags of the second New Hampshire Regiment, Continental army, recently purchased and presented to the New Hampshire Historical Society by Mr. Edward Tuck are relics of such great rarity and such historical interest and value to the people of New Hampshire as to merit more extended and careful description than was possible in the former report of the meeting published on Thursday evening.

These flags were presented to the second regiment by the committee of safety and east the state the then large sum of $200.00. They were captured in the action at Fort Ann, N. Y., July 8, 1777, by the ninth regiment of foot, under the command of Lieut. Col. Hill, but only after the announcement of the New Hampshire men had been exhausted, and the British forces had at the same time been reinforced by a large body of Indians. The loss of the colors under these circumstances to a largely superior force, and to a regiment noted in the British army for its gallantry in action was inevitable and was no disgrace. The reputation of all three of the New Hampshire regiments for their hard fighting qualities was such that no loss on their part could have brought with it even the suggestion of stigma.

After Burgoyne's surrender, the British officers being allowed to retain their personal baggage, Col. Hill carried the flag to his home in England, from whom they descended by inheritance to Col. George W. Rogers of Wykeham, Sussex, in whose possession they were discovered by Mr. General Davis of New York while seeking material for his book on regimental colors. On learning that Col. Rogers was willing to part with the flags, Mr. Davis brought the matter to the attention of Governor Bass who sought advice in the matter from officers and members of the historical society.

In this way the subject came to the attention of Mr. Tuck, who after careful investigation secured an opinion on the colors, and then with true courtesy, stood aside to allow the state of New Hampshire to secure these wonderful mementoes if the people should care for them. Governor Bass, had an ample supply of his, and which would be used for this purpose and his attempt to raise a sufficient amount of money to purchase them failed to arouse interest. Mr. Tuck then saved the flags to his native state by presenting them to the Historical Society, and now carefully mounted and framed in massive mahogany, the best on the north wall of the lecture room in the beautiful home which the society possesses by his generosity.

The flags are both of silk measuring five feet on the staff, and five feet six inches on the fly, one being light grey blue, and the other buff. The blue flag has in its center a small red shield, with golden scrolls on either side and over it. On the shield are the letters N. H. Interlaced under them Second Regiment, in two lines. On the scrolls is the motto "The Glory Not the Prey." In the upper corner next the staff are two small semicircular emblems, the upright cross being in red, bordered with gold, the diagonal cross red, bordered with red.

The buff flag bears in its center a golden disc with thirteen rays and thirteen stars radiating from it, each of the lines touching one of the interlocking golden rings. The disc bears the motto, "We Are One," and each ring the name of one of the thirteen original states. In the upper corner next the staff are eight triangles, alternately red and pale blue, so arranged as to form two crosses, one upright and the other diagonal.

Tragically returned home after their long exile, by the patriotism of a son of New Hampshire, these aged veterans now stand ready and glad to greet all who come to welcome them and to do them reverence, proud to tell by their faded and war stained folds the story of the foundation of the republic.—Ottis G. Hammond in Concord Monitor.

"MUTT AND JEFF" ARE NOT ALTOGETHER CREATURES OF IMAGINATION.

Sherr Gus Hill undertook the production of Bud Fisher's clever cartoon creation "Mutt and Jeff," his office has resembled the banking office of a dime museum freak show. From far and wide, come freaks who think they are the natural embodiment of "Mutt and Jeff" personified. Tall, thin men with long noses, come fully convinced that they are absolutely indispensable to Mr. Hill, believing that their physical likeness for the character is all that is required. Little short fellows with and without whiskers, bald heads and funny noses, come with the same assurance and depart with a self satisfied air, thinking that the play cannot possibly be a success unless they figure in it.

One day last week, an ill-mated pair arrived from an obscure town in Indiana. They walked boldly into the office and their personal manager announced to Mr. Hill that they were "Mutt and Jeff," the living, breathing beings themselves. One glance was sufficient to warrant that belief as far as appearances were concerned. The tall one certainly was an exact counterpart of his highness, "Mr. A. Mutt." He looked like Fisher's cartoon come to life. But, alas, the poor fellow was not only deaf and dumb, but to use a common vernacular, he had "nuts in his cupola." His only accomplishment extraordinary was an ability to bend his abnormally long nose in such a way as to get it between his teeth. The little fellow was also as near the real thing as even Bud Fisher himself could drive him, bald head, whiskers and all. But, alas! Once more, he had a hair lip and he stuttered, not counting the fact that he waddled like a duck when he walked. His principal fun provoking accomplishment was an ability to fall down a flight of stairs without hurting himself. Both were very much discouraged because they did not secure the desired engagement.

REV. A. F. SIMARD.

Beloved Priest of Diocese Dies at Claremont.

Rev. A. F. Simard, one of the best known priests of the diocese of Manchester, died on Tuesday at the parochial residence, Claremont, after a lingering illness, aged 53 years.

Though in very poor health Fr. Simard has been active in his parish duties, and on Monday gave no sign of his approaching dissolution. He was taken suddenly ill in the evening and medical efforts could do naught, save postpone the end. He had been pastor at St. Mary's, Claremont, about twelve years, succeeding the late Rev. Patrick J. Phinigan, who came to this parish.

He was previously a curate at St. George's church at Manchester, and later was stationed at Hooksett. He is survived by three brothers and two sisters.

The funeral will be held Friday. Friends from all over the diocese will attend.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

Mme. Frieda Hempel, from the Royal Opera, Berlin, and in Europe considered the greatest coloratura soprano of today, will make her debut at the Boston opera house, on Monday evening, Jan. 20, singing Rosina in "The Barber of Seville." The coming to America of this famous singer was several times deferred on account of illness. Otherwise she would have sung at the opening performances of the season in both New York and Boston.

She made her initial appearance in New York on the night after Christmas as the Queen in "The Hugenots," and enthusiasm such as is witnessed but seldom at the Metropolitan was the tribute paid her singing, there being twenty curtain calls after the third act and a great profusion of flowers.

Although it is only six years since Mme. Hempel first sang in opera, she has been an idol of the opera going public from the outset of her career. During her first engagement at Covent Garden, London, in 1907, one of the crowning honors of that particular season was bestowed upon her, for when a gala performance was "commanded" by the late King Edward in honor of his royal guests the King and Queen of Denmark, Mme. Hempel sang the music of Eva in an act of "The Meistersinger." Her associates in the acts from "La Boheme" and "Madame Butterfly," which completed the evening's entertainment, were singers of such world-wide eminence as Nellie Melba, Emmy Destinn, Enrico Caruso, Vanni Marcoux, Mario Sammarco and Antonio Scotti, almost the pick of the operatic world.

Mme. Hempel has made several appearances in New York since her arrival there last month, singing in "The Hugenots," "The Magic Flute," "The Barber of Seville" and "Tales of Hoffmann," each time winning fresh triumphs. In Boston her first appearance will be made on auspicious occasion, for associated with her will be John McCormack, the great tenor, as Almaviva and Vanni Marcoux, the most eminent of French baritones as Don Basilio.

When sung for the first time in Boston last week, Wolf Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna" scored the most remarkable success in the history of the opera house and so great is the interest taken in this truly melodious work that it will be sung twice next week, on Wednesday night and again at the Saturday matinee with the original cast headed by Mme. Edvina as Matilda, Mme. Maria Gay as Carmela, Giovanni Zenatello as Genaro and Vanni Marcoux as Ruffalo, the same quartet of artists, who made "Louise" an art work of great beauty.

On Friday evening "Carmen" will be given its second subscription performance, with Mme. Gay in the title role, a part which seems to be hers alone today, as there is no other impersonation comparable to it. Leon Laflite, the French tenor, whose voice has been adjudged one of great beauty, will be Don Jose, and Jose Mardones will be the Toreador.

On Saturday night when the prices are halved, "Rigoletto" will be given its first hearing for the season. Mme. Evelyn Scottney, whose successes as Gilda have been the most sensational happenings of the season in Montreal, will sing the role here. Alfredo Dumella will be the Duke, Ramon Blanchard the Jeeter and Jose Mardones the Sparafucile. Mmes. DeCourcy, Leverant, Sharlow and Phillips also will be in the cast.

FOR WOMANKIND

These are the days when many women appreciate the beauty of antique furniture, and collectors take great pleasure in furnishing their rooms with every detail in perfect harmony.

In the Colonial bedroom with its four poster and mahogany highboy, the bedspread and window draperies are important factors. The guest chamber in olden times was supplied with an extra bedspread which was drawn over the white counterpane.

To make one of these purchase lace insertion either five or six inches wide and cut in strips the length desired. Join these alternately to strips of silk or satin the same width, corresponding in color with the draperies of the room. Ecru lace and Du Barry rose satin are an effective combination. Lace insertion to match the edging is used to border the spread.

If expense is to be considered, lace of a cheaper quality and strips of flowered lawn or dimity make a charming bed spread. The window draperies are then fashioned of the flowered material.

Silk and Cloth

Moire silk is much used for skirts with a velvet or broadcloth coat, says the New York Press. At first these combinations of silk and cloth seemed so markedly unusual, but they really will be worn by well dressed women. So the woman who wishes to use her last year's frocks may profit by this turn of fashion.

Fashion Hints

The long coat of seal is first choice. Tailor-made suits of velvet are very chic.

The slashed skirt is a feature of the new gown.

A very smart coat suit is made of velvet in tones of black and grey.

One sided effects are still fashionable in the arrangement of evening gowns.

Chameleon velvets are among the new materials for afternoon and evening gowns.

The fashionable long tight fitting sleeve is very charming when fitted with a frill of pleated tulle falling over the shoulder.

As for the linings of the fur coat they range from plain satin to every possible extravagance in gold and chiffon brocades.

There is a demand for the dark hulled suit, simply finished with a rather narrow shawl collar and narrow cuffs of skunk fur.

GLASS WITH KING'S MARK.

Precious Relic Was Stolen, But a Substitute Was Found.

Mrs. Andrew Lang tells of a Frenchman in whose chateau was a window on which Henry IV had once scratched the inscription "Dieu garde de mal ma nule, Ce 22 de Septembre, 1639—Henry." The inscription, when M. Eudant first saw it, was in two lines of big, clumsy letters:

Two years later, being again in the neighborhood, he revisited the chateau, when he was astonished to find that the inscription was now in three lines, with the letters much more neatly uniform. After some effort he got hold of the secret.

For forty years the inscription on the window had been the guide's pride and pleasure until in one fatal moment of inattention on his part an Englishman had cut the pane of glass out of its setting and walked away with it in his pocket.

The poor guide hurried to tell his master what had befallen him. The owner of the chateau assured him that the accident was of no consequence and could soon be put right. And so it was. A piece of glass of the same tone as the other panes was procured and fastened lightly in its place. The guide received orders to turn his back so as to allow the visitors to read the inscription, or if they wished, to steal it.

But it was necessary for the man to perceive in the nick of time what was going on, and only consent to shut his eyes on the receipt of a handsome tip, the amount fixed beforehand, two-thirds of which was to go to his master.—Blackwood's Magazine.

FIGHTS AGAINST HER BABIES

Children, Two, Three and Four Years Old, Are Kept at Cradle Age by Mother.

Cleveland, Ohio.—In a little kitchen at her home, Mrs. Maud Thol has battled with nature for years secretly in an effort to keep time from touching her babies.

Around her feet crept three children, two, three and four years old. Victims of a strange code her ingenuously devised to prevent them advancing beyond the cradle, they laughed, kicked their feet and waved their hands as she crooned over them.

The eldest boy did not creep faster or with greater ease than the younger ones. He mumbled incoherently, and tugged at his mother's dress and slobbered over a little bib, when she tickled him beneath the chin. He is barely larger than a child of two years and apparently has not advanced intellectually beyond the cradle.

To further defeat their development, the mother has never fed them anything except baby food. What lay beyond the door, through which a stranger never passed, they had no idea.

Neighbors say the woman never took her children away from home. Occasionally in the hot summer, they say, she would wheel them away in the darkness, but always guarding them closely from the gaze of any persons.

"She has a strange desire to always keep them babies," Deputy Sheriff Sobczak said. "The four-year-old boy cannot talk or walk. He is not as large as an ordinary youngster of eighteen months old."

Several days ago William James, clerk of the probate court, discovered the plight of the children and investigated. He continued the investigation until he made sure the children were not imbeciles.

James and Sobczak went to the house, arrested the woman and took her to the City hospital. The children will be placed in an infant institution.

Laurels for Woman Swimmer.

The feat of Miss Nellie Schmidt, of Alameda, in swimming around Seal Rocks has established her record here as a champion swimmer. No one before her has succeeded in swimming around all four of the Seal Rocks, as usually the tide races so furiously around them that the strongest swimmer is powerless to make any head way against it. Only two men, athletes of the Olympic club, have swum around three of the rocks. Miss Schmidt has also to her credit the swimming of the Golden Gate and the swim across the Bay of San Francisco. She is an Alameda girl who has developed her remarkable qualities as a swimmer in the last three years. She is a type of woman athlete that is becoming common here, because of the great opportunity which the climate affords for outdoor exercise every day in the year.—San Francisco Call.

Pass the Onions.

Kill the onion and you leave a gap in the universe. Kill anything else and there is a substitute. The onion is alone, unique, triumphant. It is a special creation to tempt the palate of a weary world. It proves the utility of man's wisdom. It might have guessed at everything else under the sun, but he would have never guessed an onion. Science may deduce a new star before it becomes visible, or a radium before its discovery, but this ancient fragrant, starchy vegetable would have gone uninvited forever had not its own insinuating, yet not bashful qualities, forced themselves into tear-brimmed eyes and lustrous anticipations of lips. With what a mixture of gratitude and awe should we view the spectacle of nature turning her energies to the transmuting of mere clay into a vegetable with an artistic temperament.

OBSERVED

LADIES NIGHT

Members of Canton Senter P. M. Present Retiring Captain Chick With Watch Charm

Old Fellows' hall was the scene on Tuesday evening of a large and representative gathering, the occasion being the annual ladies' night, together with inspection and installation of officers of Canton Senter, Patriarchs Millard, and the whole affair was one of great enjoyment and will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to be present.

Capt. Clarence S. Chick was master of ceremonies, assisted by Major Albert E. Rand as marshal, and the first in order was the banquet at 6.30, for which the members of Union Rehearsal Lodge entered, and to which all did full justice. The march to the banquet hall was led by Capt. and Mrs. Chick, followed by the officers and chevaliers of Canton Senter and their ladies. Arriving there all remained standing while the Rev. William P. Stanley gave thanks for the beautiful fare before them. The menu was as follows: Escalloped oysters, roast turkey, cranberry sauce, sliced ham, hot rolls, olives, celery, apple pie, mince pie, lemon pie, lemon pie, assorted cakes, vanilla ice cream, oranges, bananas and coffee.

At each plate was placed a placard, naming the officers, who were delayed by the trains, arrived.

Promptly at 8 o'clock occurred the inspection of the canton, which gave a very fine drill. The inspecting officers were: Inspector General Department Commander H. E. Fairbanks of Manchester, and Assistant Inspector General Col. C. E. Woods of Nashua.

Directly after the installation of the newly elected officers took place, this ceremony being in charge of Capt. Clarence S. Chick, installing officer; Maj. Charles Hodgdon, A. A. General; and Capt. S. R. Outwalt, all of the following are the officers for the ensuing year: Captain, Louis Shoberg; Lieutenant, A. L. Plummer; ensign, H. L. Stewart; clerk, Capt. Charles Clough; accountant, Capt. W. H. White; guard, Walter Mason; standard bearer, Reginald Ham; sentinel, J. M. Conroy; picket, Corran Griffith.

As soon as this, the first part of the program, had been completed, Master of Ceremonies Capt. Clarence S. Chick, announced that the program as planned would be carried out without further mention, and the exercises proceeded as follows: Piano solo, Miss Boyer; vocal solo, Mr. Albert Sprague; vocal solo, Mrs. S. A. Freeman; reading, Miss Mae Warren; banjo solo, Miss Boyer; vocal solo, Mrs. S. A. Freeman; reading, Miss Mae Warren; vocal solo, Mr. Albert Sprague.

A little addition was made to the above program, which the committee thought best not to publish ahead of time, when Capt. Charles H. Clough, after the piano solo, arose and with the following tribute presented the retiring captain with an emblematic watch charm, as a token of the high esteem in which Capt. Chick is held by the officers and chevaliers of Canton Senter. Captain Clough's remarks were as follows:

"The arrangement of the program for this evening's exercises was divided in two separate parts, but we have one more section, which to the committee seemed rather out of place to be added to the order of exercises in printed form, consequently your humble servant was selected to fill in this part of the program. We have with us this evening a member of Canton Senter, who joined the organization Nov. 11, 1902. His strict attention to the welfare and work of the canton and his kind and gentlemanly ways won for him the highest respect of its members and January 1, 1908, he was elected to the position of lieutenant in command. His strict attention to duty and his kindly ways opened an avenue for further advancement. Therefore in the year 1909 he was elected to fill the position of lieutenant and his proficiency as an officer and in the ritualistic work made him of much value to our canton; he was quiet and congenial in his ways; but his commitments as an officer were always obeyed, and highly respected, in consequence of his good behavior and strict attention to the laws and rules of the order, he was further advanced, and the following year, 1910, he was elected to the honorable position of commander of Canton Senter, which office he has filled for three consecutive years; and it gives me great pleasure to have the honor of introducing to you Captain Clarence S. Chick, whom the members of this canton delight to honor.

"Captain Chick, I congratulate you for the high esteem in which you are held by the members of your canton, and as you retire from the duties of your high and honorable office, which you have held and filled so acceptably for the past three years, do not forget there are higher planes to reach and that you have the good will and loving remembrance of your brothers. An eminent writer has said: 'Ideas, and elemental truths, fittingly expressed, become immortal. They not only encourage and instruct, but point the way to duty and usefulness. Once published, they become the common possession of the world, and it is our fault, and our misfortune, if we miss the inspiration, the uplift and the cheer that they bear aloft from age to age.'

"Herbert Kaufman tells us: 'No man is secure who cannot stand on his merits and single handed withstand the full onslaught of a world, constant competition inspired by the world's new code of might, by right alone. This is a century of deed by deed—of rapid transit commerce. The clock has become the world's greatest rival. The most precious thing under the sun today is a minute, and he who can do the most with it can demand the most. A good word is an easy obligation,' but not to speak ill requires only out silence which costs us nothing."

"Captain Chick, as an expression of the high esteem in which you are held, and in behalf of the officers and chevaliers of your command, I am pleased to present to you this token of their loving remembrance, and unlimited appreciation of your services as a brother, chevalier and officer, and as you wear it may you be reminded of the pleasant associations connected with Canton Senter, No. 12, Patriarchs Millard."

Mr. Chick was taken wholly by surprise, and feelingly thanked the donors. The program then proceeded, each number being heartily applauded and cheered, and at the conclusion very interesting remarks were made by General Fairbanks, Col. C. E. Woods and the newly installed captain, Louis Shoberg.

The committee of arrangements comprised Capt. Charles H. Clough, Capt. Clarence S. Chick, Lieut. Louis Shoberg, Gasdon Albert C. Plummer, Capt. S. Roger Outwalt, Chev. Bertram R. Stewart, Chev. Walter H. Mason, Chev. Charles W. Odorne, and much credit is due them for the excellent manner in which the arrangements for the whole affair was carried out. About 175 were present, including many from Kittery, and after the remarks an impromptu dance was enjoyed for an hour in the banquet hall.

CLOTHING AFIRE.

Lighted Pipe Causes Lots of Excitement for Boarders.

The boarders at one of the local hotels had some excitement as they assembled in the dining room for the noon day meal today. The knives and forks had just begun to rattle when the scent of burning things attracted them. They forgot the cuts and took on the role of firemen with hope of becoming famous by an opportunity to fight the flames, but no flames could be found. Somebody who has worn a red shirt could hardly be kept from heeding a call for the veteran firemen. Others waited all honor to come to the home bucket brigade. Finally smoke was discovered coming from the pocket of one of the members which had taken fire from a lighted pipe. There were about fifteen volunteers to the rescue and his glad rags never came off so quick before. The question arose as to who was entitled to the medal and it was finally decided that "Bum done it." He was put on the back as a modest hero and his name and address forwarded immediately to the Carnegie committee for action.
